

PASTOR STEERS RE-VIVAL ON TO CONSIDERABLE SUCCESS

Interest Continues in Revival at the Third Street Church—Many Out to Hear Rev. Peters.

The third week of the Methodist revival at Third Street M. E. church started off Monday evening with a good Monday night audience and with an interest and impressiveness to the service that has not characterized any other service of the revival. Rev. Peters gave a very impressive sermon based on the scenes in the Savior's life on Monday of Passion Week. The church member that is inactive was likened to the barren fig tree that was cursed by the Master. He urged the church to get in such condition that they constantly bear fruit for the Master. Prof. Grenfel sang "The Heart That Was Broken for Me," one of the most appealing of gospel songs—a sermon in itself. The "Wild Rose" by Terschuk, was played as an offertory flute solo.

It is seldom that a pastor can take a revival service and maintain the interest, especially after such a popular evangelist as Rev. Callis has been called away as he was at the time when the meeting was running at high tide. But it is very evident that Rev. Peters is measuring up to the task that has fallen upon him. Realizing the great burden that has been thrust upon him so unexpectedly the church is rallying to him as never before. The meetings are proving a great blessing to the church. Many who have been cold and indifferent are getting right again. There were conversions and reconciliations at Monday night's service, and many on the point of yielding. Large results are expected from the group prayer meetings which were resumed Tuesday morning and will continue every morning at 10 o'clock. Services will continue each evening at 7:30 preceded at 7 by the "boosters" meeting. Plans are now going forward for the reception of a large class into membership next Sunday morning—Easter. It will be a real family service and a special effort will be made to have every family fully represented in Sunday school and morning service. Conveyances will be sent for those who are aged or infirm.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO ADVISE COUNCIL ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Meeting of City Council With Business Men Results in the Naming of a Committee to Go Thoroughly Into City's Financial Affairs.

City Council met as a committee of the whole at the Council Chamber on Monday evening and quite a number of invited business men were present.

The present financial situation facing council was discussed at length by not only the Mayor and councilmen but the business men who were present. The report of the auditors who have recently completed a very thorough investigation of the city's books was read and gone into item by item.

Nothing was finally done except that council authorized Mayor Samuel to name a committee of business men to go into the financial affairs of the city and make suggestions to council.

The Mayor named on this committee E. T. Kirk, Chairman; J. M. Collins, Clarke Rogers, John M. Hunt, N. S. Calhoun, H. J. Cochran, Sherman Ann, W. H. Rees and J. Wesley Lee.

This committee is very representative and is composed of leading business men in whom the taxpayers have the greatest confidence. Their suggestions to council will be awaited with interest and no doubt but that council should follow out their suggestions.

The action of selecting such a committee to recommend to council what and how to do in an alleged crisis points out clearly that the Ledger's argument for several years that men of the highest business ability and integrity only should be elected to council, is correct. The citizens of Maysville have entrusted their affairs to Mayor Samuel and his council. That body acknowledges its inability to cope with the situation by calling in this committee of business men, who are public spirited enough to give their time and thought to the problems that come before them.

LEXINGTON MYSTERY MAN IS IDENTIFIED.
The Lexington Leader says: Authorities here are seeking relatives of William Montgomery, 40, who was found dead on the Georgetown pike, six miles from Lexington between eleven and twelve o'clock Sunday night.

The body was discovered by passing motorists but was not identified until Monday morning, when Harry Burgoine, superintendent of Walnut Hall Farm, identified it as that of Montgomery, a farm hand who had failed to return home Sunday night.

The man's home address was not known at the farm. A letter from Oakland, Calif., arrived for him today, but it was not known whether or not it was from relatives, as the misadventure had not been turned over to Coroner John Anglin, who is investigating the man's death. Montgomery had been employed at Walnut Hall farm since last November.

The grand jury, which has been adjourned for several weeks, will also report on Thursday to resume its deliberations.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVED BY CLOSING OF STORES

Local Organization to Furnish Cards to Local Stores That Will Close on the Afternoon of Good Friday.

A movement is on foot throughout the country to observe Good Friday afternoon in commemoration of the suffering and crucifixion of our blessed Savior which is the big central fact in Christianity. This movement consists chiefly of supplying to the business houses neat display cards for their windows reading "This is Good Friday. This place will be closed from noon to 3 p. m." These business houses observing Good Friday by closing their places of business during these hours.

This movement has met with great success and business men of all denominations have joined in the movement and in most of the churches in the city of San Francisco, Detroit, St. Louis and a number of other cities, the different denominations hold a fitting service at this time.

The matter has been taken up here and cards will be distributed by the Holy Name Society to all business houses desiring them and should any be overlooked by inadvertence, they can procure one of the cards at Swift's drug store. The fact that men of all nations and all times have set apart certain days and occasions for commemorating and honoring their great patriots and great men should be all the argument that need be put forward for commemorating Good Friday, this being the day on which the Savior was crucified for the salvation of mankind.

CLEAN-UP WEEK IS FIXED BY JOINT PROCLAMATION

Governor Morrow and State Board of Health Issue Proclamation Fixing First Week in May as Clean-Up Week.

A joint proclamation has been issued by the Governor of Kentucky and the State Board of Health naming the first week in May as Kentucky Clean-Up Week. The proclamation follows:

WHEREAS, Official reports show that sixty out of every one hundred cases of sickness and forty-three out of every one hundred deaths in Kentucky are due to preventable diseases, many of which are the result of conditions brought about by the careless disposal of human and animal discharges. The accumulation of filth and rubbish about the home and premises, which will afford breeding places for flies, mosquitoes, rats and other insects or vermin which will, as soon as the warm weather sets in, act as carriers of disease germs, are, not only a menace to health, but are unsightly and a reflection on civic pride, besides contributing to the community's fire hazard.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT KNOWN, That the Governor of Kentucky, together with the State Board of Health, by virtue of authority vested in them by law and in discharge of a manifest public duty, do hereby set apart and proclaim the week from April 30th, to Saturday, May 6th as Kentucky Clean-Up Week, and urge upon all health officials, welfare agencies and public-spirited citizens to at once organize for this work in such way as will insure effective results in their respective communities. The State Board of Health will furnish, upon application extensive plans for the organization and conduct of such a campaign.

By authority of the Governor of Kentucky, and the State Board of Health this 10th day of April, 1922.

OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

THE GOVERNMENT AND STRIKES

The administration's plan for bringing the coal operators and miners together in conference preliminary to amicable adjustment of disputes in this industry puts the former squarely on the defensive before public opinion. The people are with President Harding and Secretary Davis, and will watch with a perfect understanding of the situation the response which the coal producers make to the suggestion that with the mine union officials in the central competitive field they undertake in all seriousness to prevent a strike. The Department of Labor is engaged in another of those quiet efforts to harmonize contending factions disturbing to the economic peace, and labor and the employers of labor are morally bound to cooperate.

In this instance it so happens that the obligation is something more than moral. What Secretary Davis now seeks is the carrying out in good faith of what amounts to a pledge. When the bituminous coal commission appointed by President Wilson to fix the terms of settlement after the strike of 1919 drafted a award that award was written into the agreement between miners and operators in a conference held in New York on March 31, 1920, and a voluntary clause inserted in that agreement provided for an interstate joint conference to be held prior to April 1, 1922, on which date existing contracts were to expire. It is to require compliance with this understanding reached two years ago that Secretary Davis, with the approval of President Harding, now takes such action as is possible.

It so happens that the mine union officials seek such a joint conference and that the operators generally oppose it, although in varying degrees. There is not the slightest doubt that if the miners were objecting, as in this case the operators are objecting, the department would be none the less active in trying to bring adherence to a solemn covenant. The department is serving neither of the interests directly concerned, but the larger interest indirectly involved, that of the American people.—Washington Post.

YOUR THIRTY SLAVES

Take away all our machinery, steam, gas, water and electrical power and it would require 3,000,000,000 hard-working slaves to duplicate the work done by Americans.

The use of this power gives to every man, woman and child in our country the equivalent of thirty slaves. This is figured out in the latest bulletin of the Smithsonian Institute.

Why envy the nobleman, back in ancient Egypt or Bagdad, with 30 slaves toiling for him? He had swift-running slaves to bring him fish from the ocean and bird tongues from the mountains. Today with a few dimes, you can get a tin can of shrimp brought from Japan, a package of dates from Syria, a bag of nuts from Brazil, and sardines from Norway. Your slaves—machinery and power—bring them. For a few cents, you can buy enough matches to start 1,000 fires. When the ancient nobleman's fire was doused by the rain he shivered in the cold until slaves made a blaze by friction or brought firebrands from afar.

Plenty of old settlers, now living, can recall the days before matches, when they ran a mile from the nearest neighbor's house with a shovelful of blazing coals.

Your real wealth is measured, not in money, but in the number of things you obtain to eat and wear, the ease with which you can get them, the comforts and conveniences of your home, methods of transportation and amusement. It is only a few centuries since even the richest kings had no sewers, running water, rapid transportation, communication, or a "slave" that responded by the mere twist of a button. And each year adds to our comforts and conveniences. This is merely typical of the processes that have given the average person luxuries that were denied the kings of antiquity. Measured in ancient standards, we are all kings today, with the slaves of electricity, gas, water, steam and machinery constantly toiling for us.

Imagine what would happen were our great "slaves", the public utilities, taken from us.

REALLY CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCES.

The conference of Republicans at the White House Saturday night was the occasion for general expression of opinion on every important issue of national affairs. It was not a bringing together of a number of experienced public men to listen to a felicitating address by Mr. Harding. The purpose of the White House was to have a watching of views—not simply a me-tooing by the guests of all that the host said.

Democratic leaders who watch the progress of Republican administration of the country's interests cannot fail to note the sharp contrast between present ways of doing things at the White House and the methods employed under the preceding rule. Then, the Democrat who insisted on having opinions of his own was made to understand that he could not find a welcome from his President. Today it is the earnest desire of Mr. Harding to learn the views of all his party's associates—of all in anywise responsible for the carrying on of government.

As The Times has remarked before, this latter method may not be productive of absolutely ideal government. The wisest of men err, and perfect rule can come only when mistakes are impossible. But there is no more question as to the superiority of the Harding plan over the Wilson procedure, measured by the good each brings to the people generally, than there is of the popularity of the present White House attitude with Republicans and Democrats alike, in comparison with the way Democrats themselves looked upon Mr. Wilson's way of dealing with them.—St. Louis Times.

IN FAME'S IMMORTAL BOOK.

Like the fame of Abraham Lincoln, the accomplishments of the less than ninety days' Washington Conference are likely to grow higher in world admiration as time passes, until they loom far above the horizon of all things ever before achieved by a concert of nations. —Chicago Journal of Commerce.

BALL OF FIRE FALLS DURING OHIO STORM

Fostoria, Ohio, April 7. — A red ball of fire, a foot in diameter, was reported to have fallen near the home of Louis Kiser, a farmer, living near here during a storm today, and exploded four feet underground.

Members of the Kiser family, who say they saw it, declare that flames came from the ground at the explosion. No one was injured.

The Kisers say an examination of the hole left by the blast showed no fragments of the ball.

MEDITATIONS OF A SCRUB BULL.

They call me a scrub bull; yet I have a pedigree. I was sired by a scrub, dam'd by a scrub, and am treated like a scrub and I sometimes think I am owned by a scrub. My tribe outnumbers pure-bred bulls four to one. Just why I should exist is a mystery even to me. Yet, I am not responsible for it. I was brought into the world without my consent and I shall probably leave it against my will. In the meantime I am getting the most vicious publicity, principally through the farm press. They say I am a renegade and an abomination, and should be exterminated. Dairymen passing my owner's farm look at me with contempt; even the cows show me no respect. My own daughters seem to hold a grudge against me, saying that I am responsible for their low production. I cannot argue the point, for it is true. But what can I do? My owner must think a lot of me personally, or he would not continue to support me, knowing that I can never improve the quality of his herd or be a source of profit to him. These cow testing associations are certainly showing me up, and I can see the handwriting on the wall. My tribe is doomed! Under the keen competition and low prices of good pure-bred bulls there will soon be no place on the farm for me. So, goodbye. I may be gone but not forgotten, for I have retarded the development of the dairy industry for many years. — J. E. Dorman in the Nebraska Agricultural College extension notes.

MISS STONE WILL RUSH TO MOTHER.

New York, April 7. — Miss Olivia M. P. Stone, graduate nurse, who was acquitted by a supreme court jury in Brooklyn Thursday night of the murder of Ellis Guy Kinkead, is going to hurry home to her aged mother in Tompkinsville, Ky., as soon as she can arrange her affairs here, she said today.

Fear that news of her troubles would upset her mother was one of Miss Stone's greatest concerns all through the period between Kinkead's slaying and her trial. She managed to keep her mother in ignorance of the case until the trial was nearly over when Mrs. Stone learned of it and sent her a tender letter of sympathy.

New York Letter by Lucy Jeannie Price

New York. — The first "mucis auto" in the form of a radio receiving truck has appeared on our streets. It looks as though the spring season of the old-time hurdy-gurdy man is about to be ruined completely. This radio hurdy-gurdy is a light truck on top of which is strung an aerial to receive the contents which a company gives in various sections of Brooklyn. A large magnifying horn juts out of the top to throw the sound. The apparatus is grounded on the emergency brake of the car.

"Finals hopper" is the latest addition to our slang. One hears it a dozen times a day or more — according to the age and enthusiasm of one's associates. A "finals hopper" is a youth who drops in at a dance, uninvited, at the very end of it when inspection of guests won't be close or particular, and when, if he is recognized by the hostess and she remembers that he was not on her list of guests, it might be assumed that he had just stopped in to escort home some one who was there by all right of invitation.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back? In the "small" right over the hips? That's the home of backache. It's caused by weak kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Maysville people testify to their worth. Read a case of it: Mrs. R. L. Mattingly, 207 West Second street, Maysville, says: "I was in a bad condition with my back and kidneys. I couldn't get my proper rest at night owing to the dull misery in my back. I was feeling so miserable I often had to let my housework go undone. I was dizzy by spells and also suffered from rheumatic pains. I have been so bad that I couldn't walk without pushing a chair in front of me and my lower limbs were very painful. My kidneys were in a bad condition owing to their irregular action. My mother had used Doan's Kidney Pills successfully and that led me to send to Wood & Son's Drug Store and get a couple boxes. After using them I was all right. I have felt well since using Doan's and recommend them gladly." Price 60c, at all dealers. RADIO ANNOUNCEMENT OF CONTEST IS MADE Voices in the Air Offer Golden Opportunity to High School Boys and Girls Writing Essay on Roads.

Radio announcement of the national essay contest on good roads for a four years university scholarship offered through the Highway and Highway Education Committee, has been made by the United States Postoffice Department in behalf of the thousands of boys and girls who expect to participate, and in the interest of good roads generally.

Picked out of the air by thousands of receiving stations the announcement constituted virtually the first time this novel and unusual method has been employed to reach the people of the nation with a problem of universal concern. In itself the announcement marks an era in the utilization of this means of communication as important in its way as the sensible and adequate development of the highways of the country.

Dictated by an operator in the tower of the sending station in Washington, the terms of the contest, suggestions and other information, were heard plainly in many thousands of homes and offices where wireless apparatus is installed, connected with the Capitol only by the ether waves which link the remotest section of the country with affairs of metropolitan life.

Friends and neighbors, told in advance of the forthcoming announcement, gathered in the privacy of homes, learned that all pupils of high school grade are eligible to try for a four years university scholarship by writing an essay on the subject "How Good Roads are Developing My Community." Essays, said the voices out of the air, should not exceed 700 words in length and should be handed high school principals or teachers not later than May 1 of this year. Students were urged to depend largely upon their own observation for information and it was said contestants are placed on their honor to submit only original papers.

High school principals and teachers, who will receive the essays, will in turn submit the best three of those written in their schools to a designated educational institution, within the respective states, co-operating with the committee in the conduct of the contest. Further information, if desired should be sought of the Highway Transport Education Committee, Willard Building, Washington, D. C. It was said, Dr. John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, is chairman of the committee.

Not only is this newest method of communication being employed to encourage boys and girls to undertake the study of economic problems which lie closest home, but educational authorities in the territories and outlying possessions of the United States, realizing the handicaps of time and distance under which their students labor, have utilized advanced modes of making the conditions known to their pupils.

The contest was announced to high school students of Alaska by cable. Writing to the committee in Washington, Dr. Lester D. Henderson, Commissioner of Education for Alaska, says: "Upon receipt of your letter, we immediately forwarded the information it contained to all Alaska schools in which high school students are enrolled, reaching the more remote schools by cable in order that there might not be unnecessary delay."

The national prize, a four years university scholarship providing tuition and all reasonable expenses of the successful contestant, is offered by H. S. Riestone, Akron, Ohio, a member of the committee. It is being supplemented in many states by secondary prizes offered by universities, civic organizations and others interested in furthering highway improvement.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

"That's right. You always do a lot of talking about something you don't know anything about," said Jack to Freddie who was attempting to deliver the remainder of a long lecture on the dismissal of the former superintendent of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and his division chiefs.

"When President Harding says that he acted for the 'good of the service' that's enough for me, but if it isn't enough for you I'll get Uncle Ted to talk to us all about it," Jack was a bit peeved and didn't hesitate to show it, either.

"Ruth, go find Uncle Ted and ask him if he won't tell us our story to-night about this thing. I can't stand to have Freddie going on like this." So Ruth went in search of Uncle Ted. Finding him in the study reading, it didn't take her long to persuade him that they wanted a story badly. After they were all settled and quiet, he began.

"I'm rather glad," said Uncle Ted, "that Freddie brought this matter up. I had thought it stale by now, but I have found some grown men who apparently do not understand what was done and why. It is a good chance for me to make the matter clear. Without talking about any man in particular I will try to show you the wry and wherefore in this matter. President Harding and the entire administration in Washington is insisting upon one thing above all else. That one thing is efficiency. That is why Gen. Dawes was called in by the President to cut down expenses and stop duplications of orders among various departments. That is why Mr. Brown has been working with his committee to reorganize the various departments and stop duplication of work."

"Freddie, let me ask you this. Suppose your father saw a certain part of his store going down hill. It was not doing the business it should. He tried and tried, we will say, for months to get this in charge of this department to better conditions. But they failed. What would he do? He would have to do the only thing left. Dismiss all those responsible and put new blood in their places. We don't know the exact reason for the dismissal of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing officials, but President Harding has said there was sufficient reason for their discharge. He has said it was for the 'good of the service' which means for better efficiency. It means that that part of the government was not going along as it should."

"Naturally the Democrats are quite excited over this affair because members of their party are hit. They are howling for the President to give his reasons for these dismissals. The cry of the Democrats at this time is amusing. All of a sudden, when they no longer are able to pick whom they choose and place them in government positions where they choose, they have become champions of the civil service law."

"Everyone can rest assured of one thing. The President will probably not present any specific charges against the dismissed officials. There is simply a general charge of inefficiency."

We must all remember this. The administration of the executive branch of our government according to the Constitution rests with President Harding. The President feels that what he did was for the best interests of the country as a whole. That is the only way, as President, he can look at things.

"We can be sure of another thing. This isn't the last of the shake-ups at Washington. Reorganization in other departments of the government will follow wherever the President finds that the service can be improved. The Internal Revenue division of the Treasury will probably be reorganized. Work is years behind in that office. When the reorganization of the Treasury Department (of which the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is a part) is completed, it is said that other departments will follow. The administration has made up its mind that the government is going to be run on a business basis, and if the people who make up some of the branches of the government are not as efficient as they should be they will have to go. The United States government must function properly even if a few people are temporarily embarrassed. That is the answer to anything of this kind. Secretary Christian in reply to a visit from the dismissed men and women said:

"The President has had no wish to reflect upon the character of any government employee, but he did hold that a sweeping change in the bureau was essential for the good of the public service. He regrets the insinuating publicity no less than those who have been discontinued from the public service."

TOBACCO MARKET TO OPEN IN FALL AS IN OTHER YEARS

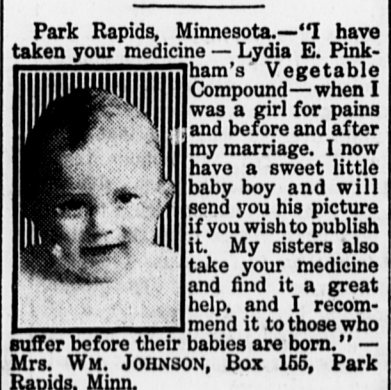

Board of Trade Reserves For Members Right of All Men to 'Use Such Methods as Are Honest and to Best Interest.'

The Kingston (N. C.) Free Press says: "It is the right of every man to seek an honest living along the lines that he sees fit. Therefore it is no man's right to criticize his fellow man for his efforts to follow his line of business and use such methods as are honest and to the best interest of his business," said a statement recently issued by the Tobacco Board of Trade here.

"We have not criticism to make of those who are sincere in their belief that the present method of selling tobacco is wrong; on the other hand we consider that we have the right to maintain that the auction method of selling tobacco is right and we do not yield this belief to any man. "Believing that time will settle the matter to the entire satisfaction of all concerned and further believing that we would do the interest of all who composed this section a great injustice did we not open the tobacco market as usual next fall, we take this method of advising you as follows: "The Kingston tobacco market will open as usual next fall for the sale of tobacco at auction, as it has for the past 26 years. A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota. — "I have taken your medicine — Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born." — Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. Why not to yours?

and the so-called independents will have their buyers on the market as usual. Anything you may hear to the contrary is false.

"We have requested that we be given three sets of buyers for the coming season so that three houses may sell at the same time. Several of the companies have agreed to do this and we have no doubt but that all of them will. This will enable us to give the trade better service than ever before. "In your interest we ask that you consider very carefully the benefits that have been derived from the tobacco industry in this section and take no step that would in any way prevent the industry getting back on a normal basis. This basis as you well know has been very profitable to you as a farmer over a period of many years."

"Bobbed Hair" is Big Feature Picture At the Washington and Gem Today.

What is art, anyway? That is the question which bothered Polly Heath, the heroine with artistic "yearnings" portrayed by Wanda Hawley in "Bobbed Hair," a new Realart Picture feature distributed by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation which will be seen at the Washington theater Tuesday.

Her friend in the "emancipated" colony sent her a sculptured head which looked like a blind more in the lost stages of loco poisoning, and assured her it was art. Her friend told her that it was highest truest art to marry him, keep a comfortable home, and rear beautiful children. But Polly was not convinced.

When her aunt attempted to discipline her by locking her in a room, Polly escaped through the window and ran away to the colony and joined her friend. There she met Paul Lamont, the poet, and had a series of adventures which finally tossed her back into her fiancé's arms, a chastened but a wiser girl.

In the part of the fiancé, William Boyd has the leading role. William P. Carleton enacts the poet. Adele Farrington plays the severe aunt, while Leigh Wyant is the "emancipated" friend. Ethel Wales is the abused wife, and the "cacolytes" are played by Jane Starr and Margaret Vilmore. A pair of clever children, Junior Coghlan and Hobart Kelly, also appear.

WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE SCORED BY OVERLAND CAR

Grueling Endurance Run From Central Garage to Flemingsburg, Elizaville, Nepton, Mayslick, Washington and Return to Starting Point

Saturday at 2 p. m. a dense crowd was massed in front of the Central Garage and at the signal of the official timer, Mr. A. J. Clooney, a light four Overland stock car owned by Messrs. Dunbar and Doughton, agents, and driven by "Herb" Williams started forth upon the route to Flemingsburg, Elizaville, Nepton, Mayslick, Washington and then to the starting point, directly in front of the Central Garage on lower Market street.

Popular interest in this endurance run had been aroused by a unique guessing contest on the time required to make the trip, a distance of 45 and two-tenths miles as recorded by the speedometer. The trip being accomplished in 1 hour 38 minutes and 39 seconds, including a five minute stop at Flemingsburg, five minutes at Mayslick and eight minutes consumed in changing tires twice, the result of the terrific shock sustained by the invincible Overland so mercilessly hurled up hill and down, round the curves and general rough going such as every motorist knows in existence on the route.

The car regularly equipped, contained besides the driver, Mr. Herbert Williams, Mr. W. R. Dunbar, who occupied the front seat, D. A. Bateman and Geo. Alexander were the rear occupants and like the "Lady of Niger" who went out to ride on a tiger, they came back from the ride with the boys inside—but "quoth the raven, never more." Regardless of the damage that might have been sustained to the car, Dunbar & Doughton planned to really test the claims of the manufacturers. The Willys-Overland Co. to such a run as cars seldom get, over roads that ordinarily "take the joy out of joy-riding." "Herb" had tuned the motor to "high C" and "Home Sweet Home" was accomplished with every unit and bolt about the car intact. The wonderful Triplex, three-point suspension springs met every rebound with a soothing caress and equalized side-sway at dangerous curves to such a minimum that all skidding tendencies were entirely eliminated. Considering the fact that the car ran continually on an open throttle the gasoline consumption was remarkably low, only scant 9 quarts being used on the entire trip.

The dependability of the Overland Four was sustained in every particular and abiding faith is firmly implanted within the mind of every "show me" man that witnessed the demonstration.

The winners in the guessing contest were as follows:
First prize 30x3 1/2 casing and tube, won by John Brishols, Maysville, Ky.
Guess one hour 38 minutes 30 seconds.
Second prize, one set weed chains, won by Leslie Coulter, Maysville, Ky., guess one hour 38 minutes 25 seconds.
Third prize, one tire pump, won by Hord Stag, Goddard, Ky., guess one hour 38 minutes 20 seconds.

FANNIE BRICE

sings "I'm An Indian" on a new Victor record of her own, but after the ton-toms die down and the smoke clears away she confesses that she's after all, a Yiddisher squaw.
She reverses things on the other side of this hectic record by assuming spinsterhood and decaying in good Brooklyn Yiddish a low-lifer named Nathan, who is responsible. "Oh, How I Hate That Fellow Nathan."

The ties were cut as though with an ax for a distance of an eighth of a mile, and the cars were left crossways of the tracks. Fast trains were derailed through Maysville for Cincinnati.
